What is YICGG ?

About YICGG

Youth Innovation Competition on Global Governance (YICGG) is an innovation competition on global governance's proposals of youth around the world. It was first launched in 2007 by Fudan University, sponsored by United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in China, and organized by the School of International Relations and Public Affairs (SIRPA) of Fudan University.

● The First in the World

The world's first international innovation competition on global governance that founded by Chinese college students.

● A Platform for Communication

Providing a platform for young students around the world to discuss global issues and find ways to solve global problems.

● Cultivating Capabilities

Cultivating and training capabilities on global governance for young students.

Remarks

UN Resident
Coordinator in China
UNDP Resident
Representative in China
Mr. Khalid Malik

To invite me to participate in YICGG, he (Mr. LONG Yongtu) made a special trip to my office in Beijing. I was deeply moved after his introduction about the competition, which is exactly the cause UNDP has been worked for. So only after 5 minutes, I made the decision to join and agreed to launch this competition together as a co-initiator. The reason why we choose to hold this event among young students is because it is vital to let the youth to spread the idea of global governance. I hope the young participants of YICGG can all have such kind of consciousness. Then, in the future, when they become operators and managers, they can treasure our world through their practice.

Former Chief Negotiator for China's Entry into WTO & Secretary General
for Boao Forum for Asia
Mr. Long Yongtu

The main target of this activity is to let the youth propose their ideas on solutions to global issues. In my opinion, young people are innocent, naïve, unbiased, not politically motivated and not influenced by business and interest groups. Therefore, the proposals from the youth are more objective. Whether the United Nations or governments, they will be really inspired if they are really willing to listen the voice of these young students.

Former President of Italy
Mr. Enrico Letta

EXPO provides a great platform for youth innovation. I am grateful to YICGG for coming to 2015 Milano EXPO, to China Corporate United Pavilion and Fudan University for their deep involvement. The deep involvement of China is one of the key factors of success of Milano EXPO. The world is now facing a series of global issues, such as poverty, global warming, human rights, sustainable development, unemployment, etc. However, the idea of global governance is still faced with the problem of weak international organizations and is still practiced on state rather than global level. I really expect that the participants of YICGG, who come from all around the world, can be the core force of global governance some day in the future.

Former Vice
Secretary, OECD
Mr. Richard Boucher

YICGG is a great opportunity for young people around the world to explore and address the global urgent problems, show their spirits of innovation and entrepreneurship. Participants have proposed various recommendations for the world, regions and countries, and shared ideas on investment, employment, economic, assistance, and cooperation. These participants from different countries with different points of view formed a new world team randomly in the summer section competition, but they have learnt how to cooperate in teams, which impressed me most in the competition.
