Following the German Microwave Conference 2016 at the Ruhr-University in Bochum Ph.D.-students will have the chance to participate in an additional, free of charge event called "Doctoral School". You can join keynote speeches and participate in workshops on microwave measurements and electromagnetic simulation techniques from leading industry representatives. All you need is a poster, presented by yourself or in a team of up to three. Exhibit your research, talk to other participants or keynote speakers and enjoy a nice dinner during the poster session. Moreover, you have the opportunity to win a best poster award.
