

Prof. Dr. Stefan Wöhnlich is a hydrogeologist who is specializing in groundwater dynamics and groundwater contamination. He studied hydrogeology at the Universities of Giessen and Karlsruhe. After spending one year at the Los Alamos National Laboratory, USA he was lecturer at the Universities of Karlsruhe and Munich. Since 2002 he holds the chair of Applied Geology at the Ruhr-University of Bochum and is coordinator of the German International Summer School on Hydrology. Prof. Wöhnlich has also taught a significant number of international courses since 1992.

Link: http://www.ruhr-uni-bochum.de/hydro/swo_index.html