Carlos Alexandre Gomes

Date of Birth: 28.09.1982
Nationality: Portuguese
Email: carlos.assuncaodias@ruhr-uni-bochum.de

Work Experience

12/2017 – Present	Postdoctoral researcher
	Department of Neuropsychology
	Ruhr-University Bochum (Bochum, Germany)
03/2015 – 05/2015	Visiting researcher
	Institute of Psychology
	Chinese Academy of Sciences (Beijing, China)
03/2013 – 09/2017	Postdoctoral researcher
	Department of Psychology
	Saarland University (Saarbrücken, Germany)
04/2012 – 02/2013	Research associate
01/2007 – 03/2007	Department of Bioengineering
	Instituto Superior Técnico (Lisbon, Portugal)
06/2007 – 12/2007	Research assistant
	Institute of Biophysics and Biomedical Engineering
	University of Lisbon (Lisbon, Portugal)

Education

04/2008 – 03/2012	PhD in Cognitive Neuroscience
	School of Psychological Sciences, Human Memory Laboratory
	University of Manchester (Manchester, United Kingdom)
09/2005 – 12/2005	Erasmus programme
	Pécs University (Pécs, Hungary)
09/2002 – 09/2006	Master's degree in Clinical Psychology (5-year degree)
	Instituto Superior de Psicologia Aplicada (Lisbon, Portugal)

Publications

Accepted

Gomes, C. A., Mecklinger, A. and Zimmer, H. (2017). Behavioural and neural evidence for the impact of fluency context on conscious memory. Cortex.

Gomes, C. A., Figueiredo, P. and Mayes, A. (2016). Priming for novel associations: Neural differences from object priming and equivalent forms of recognition. Hippocampus.

Gomes, C. A., Montaldi, D. and Mayes, A. (2015). The pupil as an indicator of unconscious memory: introducing the pupil priming effect. Psychophysiology.

Gomes, C. A. and Mayes, A. (2015). Does long-term object priming depend on the explicit detection of   object identity at encoding? Frontiers in Psychology.

Gomes, C. A. and Mayes, A. (2015). The different types of information that support novel associative object priming and its differences from item priming. Memory.